

DRYS HAVE PUT THE DEAN BILL TO SLEEP SAYS FARMERS ARE BEFOGGED

Municipal Saloon Measure to Amend Rose Law Defeated in Ohio House by a Vote of 60 to 56.

WETS MAY TAKE ANOTHER TRY

Latest Proposition is to Have Cities Eliminated From Operation of Rose Law—Attempt on Part of Friends to Have Vote to Reconsider Delayed Thwarted by Opponents. Wheeler and Dean Explain Result From Their Standpoints.

Columbus, O., Feb. 22.—By a vote of 60 to 56 the house defeated the Dean bill, which sought to amend the Rose county option law by exempting municipalities from its provisions.

No sooner was the result of the vote, 56 to 60, announced, when the wet leader, Representative Alexander of Hamilton county, changed his vote to the negative, making it stand 55 to 61. His purpose was to vote for a reconsideration at a subsequent session. Foreseeing his inability to save off this vote for reconsideration until today or later, he moved to adjourn. The motion was lost, 55 to 59. Then Representative Black for the dries had a motion to reconsider voted down, the effect of which was to kill the bill for this session of the assembly.

Out of the ashes of their hopes the wets have molded a plan to introduce a new bill, limited to cities. This intention explained why the expected cities amendment was not offered to the Dean bill. If the bill applies to cities, 83 will be affected. Had the Dean bill gone through it would have applied to 600 municipalities, which term embraces villages.

The galleries were packed and many who were unable to gain admission crowded onto the floor of the chamber, but were removed before the debate began.

Debate Loud and Long.

The debate which preceded the vote was long and sharp. It was opened by Alexander of Hamilton county, who asserted the dries now have two votes. Under the Rose law they can vote a county dry as a whole, or they may vote a municipality dry if the county has voted wet in a county option election. He said the Rose law was a failure as far as regulating the liquor traffic, and that in many dry places municipal officers couldn't be elected if they announced beforehand that they would enforce the liquor laws.

Guard of Champaign, a Lutheran preacher, said the Dean bill would allow saloons in practically every village in dry counties and that saloons would be forced upon people who do not want them.

Guard charged that the wets throughout the state had tried in every way to discredit the Rose law by encouraging the sale of liquor in dry territory. "If more liquor is consumed in dry territory now, as charged by the wets, than before the passage of the Rose law, why in the name of God are the brewers and distillers fighting for the passage of the Dean bill?" asked Guard.

Pleads For Home Rule.

Greeves of Cuyahoga, speaking for the Dean bill, said: "Home rule on the liquor question is our Democratic party pledge, implied, if not written. It is a question of justice, equality and morality. Shall the majority be ruled by the minority? It is not fair play for a puritanical few here and there to dictate to the many." He asked where the dries were getting the hundreds of thousands of dollars they were spending.

Fellinger of Cuyahoga county defended the Dean bill as being fair. He said that, although half the counties are dry, the per capita consumption of liquors has increased.

Black of Ashland said: "Just as sure as we pass the Dean bill it will act as a boomerang to our party."

"The recent remarks of Rev. Billy Sunday," said Fulkerson of Muskingum, "were enough to make any man vote for the Dean bill. If I go to hell for voting for the bill, my only regret will be that I probably have to associate with Billy Sunday down there."

The threatened bolt of the Cuyahoga delegation did not materialize, as only one member—Brewer—voted against the passage of the measure.

Two Forms of Trouserettes Worn By Women In Paris and New York

HERE are two ideas for trouserettes for women, one from Paris and one from New York. Will women adopt one of them or some similar imitation of masculine raiment when they get the vote? The picture on the right shows Mrs. Alma Webster Powell, a New York advocate of votes for women, in a garb that she invented and which she hopes will be generally accepted by her sex. She calls it a comfort costume. It consists of bloomers over which is a gown on princess lines. For walking the skirt of the gown is raised and hooked out of the way. For house wear the skirt is dropped and buttoned to the bottom, hiding the trousers. Mrs. Powell wears a cap modeled after those worn by officers in the Austrian army, a military cape and boots. She says that the adoption of the costume by women generally would solve many of their sartorial difficulties and would do much to eliminate class distinctions. The other picture shows the Paris skirt, which comes from Paris. It is a sort of divided skirt or culotte gown and is less extreme than many of the types of narrow skirts that have appeared in the French capital. The skirt is of dotted permo, and the blouse is of black steiffene.

INDICT COX ON PERJURY CHARGE

Republican Leader of Hamilton County Held by Grand Jury—Thought to be Result of Testimony Given by Former Treasurer.

ISSUES STATEMENT TO PUBLIC

Declares Indictment is Political Plot and Asks That Judgment Be Suspended Until After Facts Are Brought Out at Trial—Says Testimony He Gave Relative to Interest on County Funds Was True and Would Not Change It.

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 22.—It is believed that the indictment charging perjury against George B. Cox, which was returned by the grand jury, is the result of testimony given before that body by John H. Gibson, former treasurer of Hamilton county.

The indictment was returned before Judge Frank Gorman after the jury had heard the testimony of Gibson and Tilden R. French, another of the former treasurers who had returned illegal interest.

Gibson was one of the three county treasurers who returned $214,000 illegal interest, collected on county funds, to the county in 1906. The money was returned after legislative investigation had disclosed the fact that such interest was collected.

The indicted political leader testified before a previous grand jury March 26, 1906, that he had never received any share of such interest from any county treasurer or any bank. The present grand jury charges that he did receive about $48,000 of such funds, and must therefore have committed perjury in denying that he had.

The manner in which the illegal interest was obtained follows: The three county treasurers deposited in favored banks county funds supposed to be in their vaults. These banks, in lieu of formal interest, sent the treasurers "gratuities."

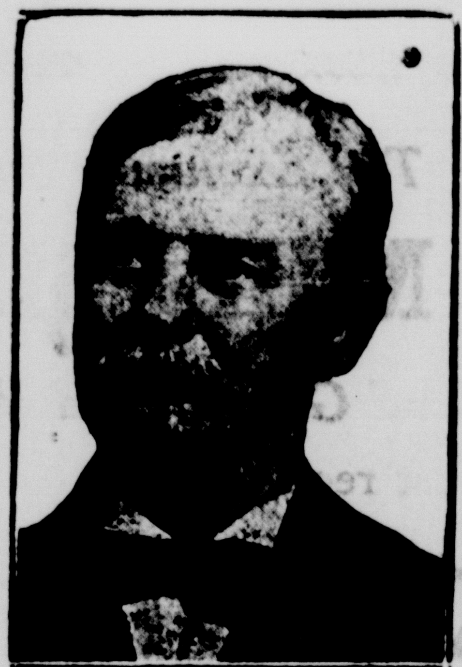

When informed of the indictment Cox went to the courthouse and gave bond in the sum of $10,000, signed by Abe Furst, for his appearance in court at a date yet to be determined.

Cox Issues Statement.

Later, Cox gave out a statement in which he protested his innocence and said he considered his indictment a political indictment, "done by a Democratic judge who drew the grand jury from his inside pocket instead of the wheel, as required by law. He asks the public to withhold judgment until the facts are heard by public trial. In conclusion he says: "My supposed indictment was brought because of testimony that I gave to the grand jury in 1906. The statement that I made before the grand jury at that time was absolutely correct. I do not care to change it at this late date. I have prided myself all my life on being truthful. It hurts me at this time to have my word questioned by a Democratic prosecutor and a jury selected as I stated before. I don't believe the courts should be used for political purposes. They are supposed to be fair and impartial, and as for myself, I ask nothing more than the humblest citizen—a fair trial."

Dry Leader Always Knew It; Dean Says Traitors in Wet Camp.

Columbus, O., Feb. 22.—W. B. Wheeler, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, said: "The day after the election our polls showed the senate was wet, and the majority of the house members elected were against any measure like the Dean bill. We never changed our belief that the lower house would represent correctly the dominant sentiment of this state favoring the county option law."

Senator Dean said: "The defeat of the bill was brought about by the desertion of members unqualifiedly pledged to the support of the measure. They promised to vote for the bill and failed at the last moment. I am not prepared now to analyze the vote close enough to make any further statement."

OPPOSES RECIPROCITY PACT

Master of Ohio State Grange Declares That Consumers Eat Flour and Not Wheat and Removal of Duty on Latter and Not on Former Works Hardship to Common People. Fears Wool Will Also Soon Go On Free List.

Washington, Feb. 22.—Before the senate committee on finance, T. C. Laylin of Norwalk, O., master of the Ohio State Grange, complained that the Canadian reciprocity pact take the duty off of wheat and leaves it on flour. He said that consumers do not eat wheat; that they eat flour, and that the same thing is true to live the and dressed meats. Taking the duty off wheat will reduce bread, crackers, or any finished products, he said; the tariff does not work that way.

Mr. Lay declared the only protection left to the farmer is that of wool; "It won't be long before that is removed."

In prompt chorus Senators Smead and McCumber asserted that it is gone already.

"Under this agreement," said Senator McCumber, "you can drive live sheep across the border from Canada, shear them in this country, sell the wool and drive the sheep back again."

"Well, we are not far enough advanced in Ohio to have figured out a thing like that," responded Mr. Laylin. "We are just farmers and we have been a little befogged there. We farmers stayed at home in the last election and Governor Harmon got 95,000 votes less than two years ago, yet had 100,000 majority. Republican congressmen who favored protection for wool were defeated. We certainly were befogged."

MARSHAL MAKES BIG HAUL IN SABINA

Under Search Warrant Captures Wagon
Load of Booze in Hands of S. T.
Groves and Dr. R. E. Lawrence---Two Charges Filed Against Each.

Sabina citizens are still gasping over the success of the village marshal who on Saturday afternoon raided a place conducted by S. T. Groves and Dr. R. E. Lawrence, securing a wagon load of liquor and breaking up what must have been a prosperous business. The Sabina Tribune Wednesday morning says:

"Marshal D. B. Williams secured a search warrant from Mayor Barnes, Saturday afternoon, and with the assistance of a posse of citizens descended on the Groves block, and made a search of the premises occupied by Sampson Groves and Dr. R. E. Lawrence.

The search was eminently successful in revealing the presence of a varied assortment of liquors. The Marshal found it necessary to summon the dray to cart the stuff to the jail, and a large crowd assembled to watch the proceedings.

The return of the Marshal on the warrant showed the following property seized:

One-half barrel bottled whiskey, in pint bottles.
One and one-half barrels bottled whiskey, in half pint bottles.
23 quarts Duffy malt whiskey.
12 pints bottled gin.
4 gallon jug with about 2 1/2 gallons blackberry wine.
1 tin can with about 1 gallon alcohol.
1 bushel basket empty beer bottles.
7 whiskey glasses.
1 bushel empty whiskey bottles.
One-half basket empty whiskey bottles.
1 pint and 1 quart measure.
1 spoon.
The seized property was locked in one of the cells in the jail room pending further proceedings.

On Monday the Marshal filed an affidavit charging S. T. Groves and R. E. Lawrence with violation of law in two particulars: 1st, unlawfully keeping a place where intoxicating liquors were kept for sale as a beverage; 2nd, receiving intoxicating liquors under a false and fictitious name."

COMPANY WILL GIVE AWAY AN AUTOMOBILE

The 30-horse power, $1250 Regal automobile, which goes to the lucky winner in the Fayette County Hardware Company's Popularity Contest, is now on exhibition at the Fayette County Hardware store.

The magnitude of the award offered in this contest is appreciated when this beautiful car is seen.

Always a leading car, as to quality and durability, and unsurpassed at the price, the 1911 Regal is undoubtedly one of the handiest cars put on the market this season.

The contest car is five passenger, four doors and absolutely complete, with top, wind shield and every equipment. It is highly polished black, with brass lamps, horn and trimmings, wheels of battleship grey and upholstered in genuine leather.

A large number viewed the car today and expressed enthusiastic admiration over its graceful lines and handsome appearance. It is certainly a car of which the fortunate winner in the contest will be very proud.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

AN APPRECIATION.

To the Editor of The Herald.

This is not a defense of the Board of Education relative to its proceedings in the matter of site for new buildings, sale of bonds, etc., as no defense is needed. Does it not seem unfair that this Board, made up of our best citizens and successful business men, should have their every act criticized, their motives questioned, their efforts in behalf of the public ridiculed or savagely attacked? Let us begin at the beginning. Why should the manner in which a part of this Board secured re-election, i. e., by petition, thus avoiding the rigors and annoyances of securing places on the ticket without the formality of submitting their candidacy to a fair and open primary, be questioned? Could the members thus clandestinely getting their names on the ticket at the regular election afford to resort to ward heeler tactics to make sure of a job for which there is no compensation, save in serving the people honorably, openly, without concealment or subterfuge? Certainly not. This election was secured in a perfectly legal manner and no taxpayer or carping critic should have the effrontery to insinuate that there could have been any ulterior motive in thus securing continued membership on the Board, even though the method resorted to was unusual. Touching upon the site controversy, it would be a cruel injustice to these honorable men to hint that an expenditure of $60,000 or more on a building and location might by the evil minded, be thought to benefit the property of members residing in the immediate vicinity. These men were duly elected according to law; certain duties were thus imposed upon them and why should they not be permitted to discharge such duties without interference from taxpayers or others who mistakenly conceive themselves to have some interest in the matters now going forward. A correspondent recently broke into your columns with something about the Ozark Hills secured indirectly from a Board member. You should have refused to print such an insinuation against a man whose standing in this community has always been above reproach. It is a well settled proposition of law that a member of a Board of Education cannot sell his property directly to the body of which he is a member. There is ample precedent for such action so why should the disgruntled object to the purchase of the Ireland lands on Oakland avenue through a third party to avoid a legal complication which was meant to head off crooks and not to prevent the consummation of a purchase which is clearly for the best interests of parents and children residing in the western part of the corporation, not to speak of the western precinct of Union township? It would be an unjust discrimination against members of Boards of Education who have anything to sell, to criticize the avoidance of the legal inhibition against such transactions, where the goods or land bought through third parties are the best obtainable for the purposes of the Board. In the selection of a site for the new High school building, even though the purchase of the so-called "Point" at the intersection of East street and Washington avenue be complained of by critics as an outrageous extravagance in the expenditure of public money, the Board can safely be trusted to make a wise choice. If their far seeing wisdom should decree that the ample space available without cost on the present Union school grounds or the vacant lot on Market street opposite the Court House, also obtainable without cost to taxpayers are not worth considering, or if it is to be the entitled "Point" or bust, we should bow to the mandate of this august body and take our medicine like the voiceless taxpayers that we are.

As to the bond sale, the writer in common with the vast majority, knows but little of the subject. It is inconceivable that six trained business men would permit themselves to be overreached by any bond dealers, Jewish or other, notwithstanding the alleged better offers for the bonds by local parties. If critics complain that the Board's attitude toward the taxpayers in this whole matter is of "The Public be Damned" sort, they should be reminded that the public has no right to find fault with servants of its own selection, and that these same servants are going about their business just like they would attend to their private affairs. It may not be amiss here to repel the insinuation that the election fastening upon us an incubus of debt which our grandchildren will scarcely live to see paid did not represent the sentiment of the taxpayers, neither in the number of votes cast nor in the quality of the support the measure received. It is neither here nor there that Board members, present and past, were out with their automobiles hauling the non-taxpaying proletariat to the polls after the most approved ward heeler style. Things have come to a pretty pass that automobile owners must needs haul millionaires or nobody. If a Board member or members or even ex-members choose to haul a few personal friends to the polls to put through a pet measure, even though such personal friends be recruited from the culled population and ruff-raff generally—why whose business is it—certainly not the taxpayers? The public will do well to attend to its own business and leave these wise men alone.

Compliment and Court.

A pure food inspector for the state board of health has some odd experiences. Many of them have a humorous tinge.

Some time ago one of the inspectors dropped into a certain county seat town and went to the court house. He sat down and visited with the county attorney, and after a little while the judge of the court wandered into the room.

"Do you know," said the county attorney, "that I think I am getting the worst of it in my ice battle. I've just made up my mind that the ice-man's scales are long in his favor, or are short against me, whatever way you are a mind to put it."

"And," interjected the judge, "in the opinion that my meatman soaks me, too. I've just made up my mind that his scales are a half-pound short. But I can't do anything. My hands are tied."

"I'll see what I can do for you," said the inspector.

He went forth and haled the purveyor of ice and the butcher of meats and their scales into court. The scales were tested and were declared short.

The county attorney, who was kicking about short weight in his ice, appeared against them for the state and did the prosecuting. The judge, who protested short weights in his meat, sat in judgment over them. The butcher and the ice-man were convicted and fined $25 each.

Reassured.

A well-known scientist was lecturing on the sun's heat, and in the course of his remarks said: "It is an established fact that the sun is gradually losing its heat, and in the course of some seventy millions of years it will be exhausted; consequently this world of ours will be dead, and, like the moon, unable to support any form of life."

At this juncture a member of his audience rose in an excited manner and said:

"Pardon me, professor, but how many years did you say it would be before this calamity overtakes us?"

"Seventy millions, sir," answered the professor.

"Thank Heaven!" was the reply. "I thought you said seven millions."

The Meek Man Retorts.

"Fountain pens," snapped the nagging wife, "remind me of some husbands."

"What is the resemblance?" retorted the meek little man.

"Expensive, can't be depended upon, won't work, and half the time they are broke."

"That's pretty rough, Martha, but you couldn't compare a fountain pen with some women."

"I guess not."

"No; a fountain pen will dry up, and some wives won't."

The korrigans, superstitious peasants believe, are the black dwarfs of Brittany who dwell in the sacred Druidic circles of the menhirs and count their cash in the moonshine. When mere mortals encounter them by night the korrigans force their visitors with them around and around, singing monotonously the names of the days of the week from Monday to Sunday. This is the theme of the best known tradition dealing with them, the story of Lao and the korrigans.

RAILROADS AT WORK ON DEAL

The Result of which will Determine the Location of the New C. H. & D. Railway Freight Depot---Will be Located on Either the East or West Side of Fayette Street.

In Either Event the Present Unsightly "Hovel" will be Blotted Out. New Structure will be Brick and Stone and Quite Imposing-looking

OLD LAND LINES ARE VIEWED

In November last the Railroad Commission of Ohio issued an iron-clad, copper riveted, lead pipe order against the C. H. & D. and the D. T. and L. Railroad Companies by the terms of which these companies were required to build new freight depots in this city.

There is no escape from that order and the Commission has the power under the law which created it to enforce literally compliance with its rulings. The punishment which the commission is empowered to inflict on refractory railroad companies is so drastic that no company dare disobey any reasonable mandate of the Commission and thereby risk practical annihilation.

But all that aside, it is only important in that it furnishes the reason why the C. H. & D. Railway company, after years of the most ungratifying and offensive disregard of the wishes and rights of our people, has finally concluded to get a move on itself and build a decent freight depot at this point.

Last Monday special agents of both the C. H. & D. and the C. & M. V. railroads were here nearly all day in consultation. The subject matter of the conference between these two officials, the real estate owned by the two companies between their tracks which parallel each other from a point considerable west of Main street to a point east of Sycamore street where the C. H. & D. tracks bear off to the south.

Both of the companies have quite extensive holdings of real estate between the points mentioned.

The C. & M. V. road is the oldest line which enters the city, and its original right of way included all that land lying south of its main track and north of the old creek bed.

Subsequently to the grant to the old "sheepskin" the C. H. & D. was built, originally a narrow gauge and the C. & M. V. granted a portion of its right of way to the new company along the southerly side of its land holdings. Later on when the C. H. & D. became an active road it required room for yards and a deal was made between the two companies by which the C. H. & D. became the owner of the land lying between the tracks and east of Fayette street, the older company still retaining its realty holdings west of Fayette street with perhaps small concessions for sidings and depot structures.

The special agents went all over this ground thoroughly at their Monday conference, with a view to making a trade of certain portions and rearranging the present lines. All with the purpose of getting better building ground for the new C. H. & D. freight depot.

Propositions of exchange were made by the C. H. & D. agent to the C. & M. V. agent, all of which were taken away by that gentleman for submission to the general officers.

Should these propositions be accepted and it will not be known until April whether they are or not, the new freight depot will be built on the ground west of Fayette and east of Main streets some where near the site of the present eyesore.

Should the "Pennsy" turn down the offers of trade then the new depot will be built east of Fayette street on ground now owned by the C. H. & D. and which is at present covered with spur freight sidings.

In either event the present half burned, makeshift for a depot will disappear from the landscape.

The plans for the new depot call for a building 120 feet in length and over forty feet wide, one story, except the front portion, which will be two stories and contain the local offices of the company. It will be constructed of brick, stone, steel and concrete and promises to be quite a commodious and imposing looking structure.

Sitting back a little way from the street no matter where located, the approach will be paved with vitrified brick or granite blocks as will also the driveways to the freight house doors, providing ample room to pass and turn without danger of being mired in the mud.

Altogether things look more promising than ever before and a new and decent freight depot for Washington at least so far as the C. H. & D. railroad is concerned seems to be a probability of the near future.

Complaint was made months ago by the Dahl-Mullikan Company branch to the Commission, the order followed in November and actual work is now being done pursuant to that order.

They don't contain calomel, but olive oil, which is healing and soothing to the irritated organs.

Dr. Edwards discovered the formula for Olive Tablets only after 17 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaints. Nothing ever equalled these little sugar-coated tablets for preventing "dark brown tastes," bad breath, pimples, constipation, torpid livers, that dull, listless, "no good" feeling, etc.

Take one, as thousands do, every night for awhile on going to bed. See how it clears your complexion, brain and outlook on life in general.

At all druggists in neat pocket packages. 15 tablets for 10c; 45 tablets for 25c.

DENISON UNIVERSITY

GLEE CLUB.

The local alumni of Denison University have made arrangements for the appearance of the Denison University Glee Club at Memorial Hall, Thursday evening March 2nd. As no college man ever gets so old or so far away from college that he is not interested in anything that pertains to college life, the appearance of a glee club, of college men, singing college songs and behaving in ways characteristic of the undergraduate, is sure to bring back many a memory of bygone days to the various college people of Washington.

Aside from the interest always centering around students, this glee club has a very presentable program, ranging from choruses that are particularly of the campus, to quartettes and solos from classical music. In addition they carry a reader of marked ability among their number. The whole program is planned with a view to adaptability to the audience, and whoever attends is sure of a very pleasant evening, and to be well repaid for the time.

This Is Guaranteed by Every Druggist That Sells Them, or Money Refunded.

It does not matter how severe the headache, or the cause, Hoffman's Powders will stop it. They soothe and ease the overtaxed nerves. That awful throbbing ceases immediately the powders are taken and safe relief is certain.

Some people seem to have the idea that all advertised remedies are "patent medicines." Hoffman's Headache Powders are prepared from the prescription of a noted Buffalo, N. Y., specialist in nervous diseases. They are guaranteed by Blackmer & Tanquary, and all other druggists selling them to not only banish any sort of headache, but will not produce any ill effect. To the contrary, they tone up the nervous system. A 10 or 25 cent package will convince.

At the fashionable hotels and eating houses where you have music by a full orchestra during the dinner, the price is not less than a dollar. THE OLD NATIONAL ROAD.

Running through Franklin, Madison and Clark counties to the north of us is that Highway of Hope—the Old National Road.

Right now the movement to improve this historical old highway binding east and west is widespread and extensive repairs are being made in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana. The road is being resurfaced, macademized and patched up in various ways according to the condition of the funds in the county treasury, the tax rate and the desires of the people in the several political subdivisions, from beyond the Allegheny mountains to St. Louis, through which this, at one time, great avenue of commerce passes.

Motorists particularly are hoping that the Federal government may yet be persuaded, while the good roads movement is on in full blast, to co-operate with the states in a scheme to reconstruct the pike all the way from Cumberland, Maryland, to St. Louis, Missouri, a distance of 800 miles.

Not only would this afford an ideal runway half across the continent for motorists, through the most beautiful country on earth, but it would be the means of perpetuating the memories of the hardy pioneers who set out from the crowded east to seek homes in the then unknown West.

James Ball Naylor in his poem on "The Old National Road" tells us:

"From the foot of the mountains still westward it trailed,
Till the footprints of settlement faltered—and failed;
Under skies that were blustering, skies that were bland,
Over turbulent streams that no bridge has e'er spanned
But the Rainbow of Promise; and ended its quest
Where the birds and the brooks of Ohio sang—'Rest.'
'Equal chances and favors for all!' was the code
Of the open and honest old National Road."

What a flood of pathetic history—sentiment if you please—clusters around this old road. The honest, hard-working pioneers who set out from the crowded east to wrest fortune from the open lands of the West. These were the men who did things and made possible this country of ours—these men who were able to get their whole families—and there was no race suicide in those days—and all their worldly possessions in one big overcrowded wagon were the strong men of their day.

"And our best blood today is the red blood that flowed
In the veins of the MAN of the National Road."

The Federal Government, the several state and county governments could join hands in one gigantic, concerted movement and make of this historical old road not only the best and longest "good road" in the world but at the same time erect to the memory of those who trod that road in order that we of the Middle West might enjoy the many blessings which we have today, an enduring and practical memorial—one in harmony with their lives.

Here is an excellent opportunity for the people of the sections which this great pike traverses to blend wholesome sentiment with practical uses and secure an ideal result.

The purpose of its construction was not primarily that of a pathway for travel, but to furnish a practicable route for the transportation of freight.

The highway was the longest and straightest ever built by any government, and the total cost paid out of the United States treasury was about $7,000,000. The total width of the road was 66 feet, of which 32 feet was grade and 20 feet was macadam.

At a moderate cost it is believed that it could be brought to a high state of perfection, furnishing the most ideal tour for motorists driving to either the East or Middle West. This is the hope of those promoting the interests of the good roads movement, and there is a chance that the famous old "pike" may yet be restored to some of its ancient glory.

While it does not pass through Fayette county our territory was originally tributary to it and the settlement of this whole section was hastened, if not largely brought about, through the medium of the great old road.

Consequently, there is a wealth of sentiment here in favor of the reconstruction of the famous old highway.

Here is hoping that we shall all have the opportunity and the ability to spin down the old National Road from end to end in a big touring car and revel in the scenery and the history which clusters along every foot of its vast stretch. Should our purse be too small to permit this we can step off the train at Springfield, London or Columbus and travel over it partly with our eyes and the remainder with fancy, and dream wholesome dreams of the days and the men of long ago.

Well, anyway, it cannot be said that the farmers are not receiving plenty of advice on the reciprocity question, whether they think they need it or not.

Now Mexico wants a reciprocity agreement with Uncle Sam. Right here and now we go on record as dead opposed to putting revolutions on the map.

A Buffalo editor says, "it would be a delightful spectacle in American politics" for the anti-caucans Democrats of the N. Y. legislature to join the Republicans and re-elect Depew. Humph! That's the way Lorimer won, wasn't it?

Thanks be to common sense, the barking of sectional dogs in the Congressional hunt doesn't cause the outside excitement that it once did.

POETRY FOR TODAY

THE HEART OF A FRIEND.

A heart that is glad when your heart
Is gay,
And true in the time of cares;
That halves the trials of a fretful day
And doubles the joys that it shares.

A heart that can cheer your heart
With its song,
And comfort your hour of need;
A heart that is brave and faithful and strong,
Wherever misfortune may lead.

A heart that is yours when the way seems dark,
And yours in sunshine, too;
A heart that cares not for rank or mark,
But only the heart of you.

A heart that will shield when others abuse
The name that it knows is fair,
That would rather miss fortune and fame than lose
The love of a friend that is dear.

A heart that will hear no ill of you,
But is ever quick to defend.
A heart that is always true, steel true—
Such is the heart of a friend.
—By Cornelia Seyle.

Happenings In Ohio

Assistant Postmasters Meet.

Columbus, O., Feb. 22.—The feature of the annual meeting here today of the Ohio Association of Assistant Postmasters was an address by Edward E. Large, assistant postmaster at Ashtabula, on "The Postal Savings Bank in Actual Operation." As Ashtabula has the only postal savings bank in Ohio, Mr. Large's remarks were listened to with great attention. Ashtabula's experience with the postal savings bank, according to Mr. Large, has been entirely satisfactory, and the system is growing in popularity with the working people of the city. The meeting will close this evening with a banquet at the Chittenden hotel.

Strikebreakers Reach Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 22.—Fifty strikebreakers, secured by the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railroad in Chicago, were brought to the Collinwood shops in an attempt to break the strike of the boilermakers caused by the piece work scale. Officials expect to fill the places of the strikers within a short time. Strikebreakers are also being hired by the New York Central boiler shops.

"Bet that goat has found something that will stick to his ribs."
"What's he done?"
"Eaten the flypaper."

A Ready Response.

A young Irish officer when in Dublin lives in rooms which are very small. One day one of his fashionable friends called on him, and, as he entered, said:

"Great heavens, Charles! How on earth can you live in this place? Why, there isn't room enough to swing a cat in. How long have you been in this antebellum?"

The officer smiled. "Not long enough to become a hermit," was the witty reply.—TR-111a.

Boston Tar Baby Whips Bill Lang

Langford Easily Outclassed Australia's Champion.

London, Feb. 22.—It took six rounds for Sam Langford, the Boston "Tar Baby," to end the fight with Bill Lang, the Australian heavy-weight champion.

The greatest interest was manifested in the fight, which took place at Olympia and was for a purse of $17,500, because of the fact that McIntosh, the organizer of the match, promised the winner a match for $45,000 with Jack Johnson. Nearly 8,000 people watched the fight. The gate money amounted to $45,000, which is a record for a fight in London. Notwithstanding Lang's superior height, weight and reach, it was soon evident that he was out-matched by the quicker and more scientific American.

She Got the Habit.

Mr. Woodpecker—Can you lend me $5, Stork?
Mr. Stork—Can't do it these days, old boy, wife's got the long glove habit.

"Am I really and truly your first and only love?" queried the dear girl.
"No," answered the truthful drug clerk, "but you are something just as good."

"Gee! Isn't he done with that speech yet?"

"Yes, he's been done for twenty minutes, but heaven only knows when he'll stop talking."

Rare Combinations.

"The time the place and the girl. How seldom we see them together."

"And another rare combination, is the man, the scheme and the coin."

Elis—"Bella married an octogenarian."

Stella—"I don't think that a girl ought to change her religion for a man."

Carroll Vetoes Oregon Plan.
Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 22.—Governor Carroll appeared before the general assembly and read his veto of the Oregon primary bill, passed by the votes of the Democrats and progressive Republicans. He said he vetoed it because it might result in the election of a Democratic senator.

Naval Money Held Up By Amendment

Kentucky Congressman Gets Back at Steel Interests.

Washington, Feb. 22.—The Democrats of the house of representatives secured the adoption of an amendment to the naval appropriation bill which renders impossible the expenditure of a dollar of the money appropriated by that measure for the purchase of a pound of steel for use in battleship construction until the attorney general has decided whether or not the United States Steel corporation is or is not a trust, a monopoly or a combination in restraint of trade.

This is the interpretation placed upon the amendment by the Democratic side of the house, which is jubilant. Those Republicans who are opposed to the amendment, although they were extremely reluctant to vote against it, say nothing. This action is the culmination of the fight on the steel trust conducted for years by Representative Stanley of Kentucky.

This is only one of the radical performances by the house. It was for all the world as if the next congress was already in session, with the Democrats in control of the lower branch, for in addition to the steel trust amendment the house went on record as declaring that every war vessel, great and small, from submarine to battleship, authorized by this year's bill, must be built under the operation of the eight-hour law. And as a final touch, the house took a shot at the alleged intimate relations existing between navy department officials and the companies which have supplied coal to the navy for years by prohibiting the transportation of coal from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean for the use of ships of the United States navy.

Girl Drowns While Crossing Swell Near Home.

Meadville, Pa., Feb. 22.—Her frozen hands still clinging to the ice and the balance of her body entirely submerged, the body of Miss Bessie Margaret Pierce, 19, one of the leading young women of Cochranton, was found in a small near her home. While out for a walk she had taken a short cut through a plot of thin brush, and the trail showed that she had broken through the ice where the water was shallow several times. There were signs of the struggle for as much as 40 rods where the girl had stumbled and pulled herself up by some friendly bush until at last, exhausted, she broke through where the water was about two feet deep.

Knox Protests Against Reign of Terror in Haiti.

Washington, Feb. 22.—Secretary of State Knox has sent a formal protest to President Simon of Haiti against the present reign of terror which has been inaugurated there to quell the pending insurrection. The British consul general there called upon W. W. Furnish, American minister at Port-Au-Prince, and protested on behalf of the British colony against the existing conditions. Mr. Furnish reported that business is at a standstill and there continues to be a feeling of uncertainty at Port-Au-Prince. Many of the better class of Haitians are either in jail or in hiding through fear of imprisonment.

President Taft Presents New Trade Treaty to Senate.

Washington, Feb. 22.—President Taft sent to the senate an important new treaty of commerce and navigation between the United States and Japan to supersede the existing convention, which has been in force since July 17, 1898. The new treaty affords impressive evidence of the cordiality of this government toward Japan. Not only has this government yielded to Japan's desire that the existing treaty be terminated a year in advance of the date of its expiration, but the United States has further shown its good will by omitting from the new convention a paragraph of the old relating to immigration, which has always been distasteful to the Japanese.

The principal feature of the new treaty relates to this immigration clause. The effect of the convention submitted to the senate is to leave the problem of Japanese immigration into this country entirely to the honor of the Japanese government.

Wayne County Coroner Probes Death of Dominic Lucel.

Wooster, O., Feb. 22.—Mystery surrounds the death of Dominic Lucel, 16, who died after a brief illness. Coroner King held an inquest and decided that the boy's death was due to a blood clot on the brain, resulting from an injury sustained at the hands of an unknown Italian, aged about 28. The man came along where young Lucel and the boy's father were sparring with boxing gloves. When the father took off the gloves the man put them on and struck young Lucel several heavy blows about the head and chest.

SERVING LUNCHEON

Many a young housewife who can plan a delicious menu for luncheon and perhaps cook many dainties for it does not know exactly how to serve her goodies she has planned for.

In the first place, setting the table is usually considered a difficulty, but need not be, for the simpler the settings the nicer they will look.

A centerpiece and dories are prettiest if the table top is of good wood, and the very best glass and silver should be used. Have the grapefruit cocktails or oysters or whatever is to begin the menu on the table when the guests come in.

Have these removed and the soup brought in already in the plates, serving the guest to the right of the hostess first.

Then hot plates may be put before each guest and the fish passed to them.

The meat, potatoes and other vegetables should be on a side table and be passed by the maid, while olives, celery, salted nuts, bonbons and jelly may be on the table and passed at random by the guests themselves.

Knives and forks enough for every course should be on the table, and the coffee may be served with the dessert or brought into the drawing room later, which is usually the most popular fashion.

RADIUM BUSINESS IS PICKING UP

PARIS, (Special).—The radium business flourished in 1910. The Bank of Radium sold $153,000 worth, or nearly two grains—1.92, to be exact. Of this $14,000 worth went for commercial purposes, the rest for medical.

The entire radium output was produced by the single factory, at Nogent-sur-Marne. Even bigger business is anticipated for 1911.

He was a conscientious office boy and he had always been taught to emulate the great George Washington and never tell a falsehood.

"Boss," said he, timidly, as the noon hour approached, "I want to get off this afternoon."

"Oh, you do, eh?" said the old broker, peering over his glasses.

"Yes, sir, and I haven't any grandmothers."

"Well, you are an exception, indeed."

"And, I'm not sick."

"Extraordinary, very, extraordinary."

"In fact, sir, I want to get off to go and see a ball game."

The old broker's face brightened.

"Well, Willie, I must say that you are the most honest boy I ever met."

"Thank you, sir."

"Yes, and come to think of it, I want to see that game myself. I was afraid to leave the office at first, but now that I see you are such an honest boy I know my business couldn't be in safer hands. It will take some time for me to get back, so you will stay an hour or so later. So long, Willie; there is nothing like being honest. When I come back I'll tell you the score."

The steady and substantial growth of this progressive and conservative company, whose assets are $4,500,000, has made larger quarters really necessary. This company has $100,000 ready to loan on first mortgage on homes.

COINS TESTED ONCE EACH YEAR BY COMMISSION

Annual Custom Nearly Century Old About to Be Performed.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Following the old custom inaugurated in 1823, the Assay Commission, which tests and examines coins of the United States, meet in Philadelphia to perform their annual task.

The Commissioners are required to see that the coins made by the four mints of the nation are in dye conformity with their standards of fineness and weight. The coins are selected from the various mints and sent to Philadelphia.

The members of the commission are appointed for one year, but in reality perform about one week's work. The commission consists of six men for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, the Comptroller of the Currency, the assayer of the New York assay office and such other persons as are appointed by the President.

The history of the commission dates back to the establishment of the first United States Mint, at Philadelphia, in 1792. Its ex-officio officers were the judge and the district attorney for the Eastern district of Pennsylvania, the collector of the Port of Philadelphia, and the appointees of the President. Since that time, the commission has tested and examined coins every year.

The test coins are picked indiscriminately from each delivery of coins that are made to the Superintendent of the mints by the coiner.

At least one coin is selected from every delivery of 1,000 gold coins and one out of every 2,000 of silver coins. These test coins are deposited in a "box" designated for the purpose at each mint, and kept under the joint care of the superintendent and the assayer.

From the local mint they are sent to the Philadelphia mint, where they are received by the commission.

After having been divided into three committees—counting, weighing and assaying—the commission will proceed to count, weigh and assay. Later a report will be formulated and sent to the President, in which the judgement of the commission will be found.

It includes the reports of any discrepancies found, and may comprise resolutions expressive of the opinions of the commission upon the conduct of the mints.

The standard of weight, which is specified in the statutes regulating the work of the commission, is brass troy pound weight.

It was obtained in 1827, three years after the establishment of the commission, by the then United States Minister to London, for use in the Philadelphia mint. From this standard measurement, the standards of coins minted in the United States are taken.

In the examination of the coins the commissioners make use of what is known as "tolerance," or allowable difference of weights above and below standards set for coins, and a deviation from standards in fineness. The amount of "tolerance" and deviation vary with the various kind of coins.

Besides the designated members who will make up the Commission to test the coins this year, President Taft will appoint twelve other members. These men are usually selected because of their interest or knowledge of the subject. Last year Senator Carroll S. Page was chairman, and J. William Sheets, secretary of the Commission.

evening. Both sides presented an ar-the court giving Mrs. Scott over to Club News.

The Department of Literature,
Mrs. Lucy Ginn, chairman, presented a good program last night at the Browning club.
The president-elect, Mrs. Elizabeth G. Carpenter, announced the dates for the next year from October 17th to March 12th, with a vacation from December 19th to Jan. 9th.
Some time was spent in discussion for the year's program. There was some change in the officers, Miss Opal Swope being put in as treasurer; Miss Alice Purdue, librarian, and Miss Ruth Allen, assistant.
Mrs. Ella Mark made current events very interesting. Among a number of late innovations she spoke of the 3-cent lunch for school children in New York, and the new Harvester, which introduces a new reign for old King Cotton, brought to wonderful perfection by Campbell.
Miss Meba Bay gave an entertaining reading from Mark Twain's "Roughing It," and talking briefly on this incomparable "Spinner of Yarns".
The music was an especially attractive feature of last evening. A sextette of talented young pianists, Charlotte Baker, Edith Worthington, Dorothy Bush, Gladys Bargar, Virginia Sites, Gertrude Miller, played a beautiful piano number and a quartet, Misses Worthington, Baker, Bargar and Miller, responded to a persistent encore.

pretty number.

Mrs. Frank Fullerton gave a book

Mrs. Lillie G. Davis sang three

LEAKING CORNICE
CAUSES ACCIDENT
Chas. H. Parrett, of this office, received a very hard fall at the entrance to the office of W. H. Dial, on Court street, last evening after dark, from the effects of which Mr.
Parrett will suffer for some time.
He was just leaving Mr. Dial's office when the accident occurred. At the doorway water had dripped from the cornice above and coated the stone flagging with a thin, sleek layer of ice. As Mr. Parrett stepped on the ice, which could not be seen in the dark, his feet slipped from under him and he fell full length, striking his head on the stone door sill and the lower part of the trunk of his body on the stone pavement.
Mr. Parrett was picked up in a semi-conscious condition and carried into Mr. Dial's office, where he was attended by Dr. Brock, and later removed to the physician's office. His injuries consist of an ugly cut on the back of the head and a bad bruise and wrenching of the lower part of the body, affecting the sciatic nerves, which has since caused him a great deal of pain.

The owner of the building has neglected for some time to fix the cornice referred to and water from snows and rains continually drips to the pavement below, causing in freezing weather a grave danger to the public. Mr. Dial repeatedly cautioned his visitors on Tuesday in regard to the ice at his doorway thereby, doubtless, averting a number of similar accidents. Unfortunately he did not think to so advise Mr. Parrett, who stepped innocently into the trap awaiting him.

brothers have now arranged to carry

McCoy Breaks
50-Yard
Record

The prowess of Charles McCoy, son of J. W. McCoy, of Rattlesnake, has again brought him into the limelight. McCoy is an athlete of the first rank, one of the kind that breaks records. Last week he participated in the First Regiment meet and in the 50-yard dash is credited with cracking the record. Concerning this the Cincinnati Post says:
"Did McCoy, of Miami, equal the world's record when he ran 50 yards in 5 2-5 seconds at the First Regiment meet?"
Andrews' record book gives two others—Forline, of St. Louis, and Haddock, of Kansas City—credit for running the same distance one-fifth of a second faster. But Spalding's athletic book has the record for that distance at 5 2-5 seconds, made by three men—Rice, Eaton and Murray.
Efforts will be made to have the McCoy's time recognized. Affidavit will be made that the course was of regulation length and that the timers were competent."

The weary Walker.
An amusing incident occurred several days ago in which two young clubmen, a little the worse for wear, found themselves the victims of mistaken identity in the hands of a good-natured but unobserving "cabby."
The story is best told in the words of the latter, who, by the way, is fairly well known to those who frequent the neighborhood of Broad and Walnut streets.
"It was this way," said the "Count," for such is his non de plume. "I was driving slowly down Fifteenth street, near Gerard avenue, when two young gentlemen, arrayed in dress suits, hailed me and requested that I haul them to Twenty-first and Walnut streets. "Twenty-first and Walnut it is," I says. "Climb in" and they climbed in as gracefully as they could.
"Several squares below another sport who was also carrying a little more than he could handle hailed me and asked to be taken to Second and Reed streets. I says climb in, and he climbed in with the other two.
"At Twenty-first and Walnut I opened the gate and two of the gents dropped out, and I proceeded with the third to Second and Reed. When I shouted "Change cars," the gentleman got out—notice I say "got" out—and after a survey of the neighborhood he turns to me and says, "Say, my friend, ish thish Twenty-first and Walnut streets?"
"Probably the other fellow is still wondering what became of his friend, and it may be surmised that the third member of the jolly trio became one of the 'I walk' contingent."—Philadelphia Times.

A Lost Opportunity.
Small boys are not always as sympathetic as their relatives wish, but on the other hand, they are seldom as heartless as they sometimes appear.
"Why are you crying so, Tommy?"
inquired one of the boy's aunts, who found her small nephew seated on the door-step, lifting up his voice in loud wails.
"The b-baby fell d-down stairs!"
blubbered Tommy.
"Oh, that's too bad," said the aunt, stepping over to him and opening the door. "I do hope the little dear wasn't much hurt!"
"S-she's only hurt a little!" wailed

BIG FOOD PLANT IS OPERATED BY CHINAMEN
France Has One of Most Novel Factories of Kind
In the World.
PARIS, (Special)—Out at Les Vallees, near here, there is a large factory backed by a running capital of $400,000, the output of which is food in tabloids. The oddity lies in the fact that it belongs to Chinamen exclusively, was built by Chinamen and is operated by Chinamen. It is perhaps the most model factory in France.
Li Yu Ying, aged 30, is the president and organizer of the business.
He is the originator of the food-tablets which are made, also. He is an expert chemist, an engineer, scientific agriculturist and former student of the Pasteur Institute at Paris.
The son of a former minister of State in Peking, Li came to Paris in 1901 to study scientific farming at Chesney, near Montargis. Later he entered the Pasteur Institute.
There he studied alimentary problems from the viewpoint of a vegetarian. He thus developed and perfected several formulas for concentrated foods and the idea of establishing a factory, to make these articles followed as a matter of course.
The only thing he wishes to be French about the business was the ground to build on.
Returning to China in 1909 he at once launched his company with a $400,000 capital. Most of this amount was subscribed by friends of his and his father's, men in government circles. The company was incorporated under the laws of China and headquarters were opened in Tientsin.
Li Yu Ying now hurried back to France and established his factory at Les Valles.
The buildings cover a large space and are models of their kind. The machinery inside them was made in China and was assembled at Les Vallees by Chinese mechanics, twenty of whom came from the East for that purpose.
Lastly Li Yu Ying sent for a corps of Chinese laborers, and now the factory is humming away full tilt, under their guidance.

UNITED STATES MAY BUY FRANKLIN HOME
Movement on Foot to Preserve Historical Old Home in Paris.
PARIS, (Special)—It is understood here that the United States has taken steps to buy the house in the Rue de Fenestriere which was built by Benjamin Franklin and upon the roof of which was installed the first lightning rod.
It appears that the American government wishes to preserve the house as being of unusual ministerial interest and later might be made to serve as an embassy building.
The General Bonaparte once lived there, as did Josephine and Hortense de Beauharnais.

LITTLE SONGSTERS ARE HIS FRIENDS
M. Pol, the bird charmer of Paris, who has been decorated by the French government. The figure of M. Henry Pol is a familiar one to frequenters of the Tuilleries Gardens, and it may be said that he has acquired worldwide fame by his unique familiarity with the sparrows and other birds he has under his control.
By his wonderful patience and study,
M. Pol, who is seventy-six years of age, has won the intimacy of hundreds of little songsters and at the same hour every day they flock to see him and will even perch on his hands and perform tricks.
The bird charmer is a retired postal servant.

Mrs. Blase. It isn't that. I've

Why Not Now?

The Trade Name For Such Fabrics as Pique and Vestings.

Among the finest and most distinctive varieties of textile fabrics are the cloths technically known as "quiltings," which, however, have nothing to do with bed quilts but include such fabrics as piques, diamonds, matings and materials for gentlemen's light waistcoats.

The important processes in the manufacture of quiltings are zealously guarded as trade secrets, says the London Illustrated News. They represent the finest achievements in cotton cloth.

The extreme delicacy of their manufacture may be gathered from the fact that down even to twenty-five years ago they were still largely made on the hand loom, the work being done not in mills but given out to the workers in their own homes. By constant experiment and after many failures a quilting loom was constructed which could be driven by power, though its production was only slightly faster than the hand loom. During the last twenty years great improvements have been introduced, especially at Bury, England, which claims to be the centre for the making of quiltings.

INTERESTING STORIES OF FACT AND FICTION

Bub and the Goddess

The girl of the Brookland Farms stepped from the leisurely accommodation train and looked about for the tribe. Not finding them, she frowned, spoiling a pretty forehead, until a young man, bearing a whip, a suit case and a new saddle blanket, hailed her.

"Hello, Virginia! Got ding, I'm glad to see you!"

The young lady elevated her gloved hand to a level with the man's felt hat. "Ah, Bub!" she exclaimed, "a glimpse of your bucolic presence is refreshing after an urban sojourn."

"If you mean you're glad to see me why don't you say so?" murmured Bub Hawkins, rather sullenly, ignoring the elevated hand.

"Uncle Hiram's got the rheumatism twitches and sent me to meet you."

As they sped in Deacon Berry's new buckboard along the splendid meadow lined road, Virginia Berry made continual observations. "What a pastoral scene the lowing kine present, Bub."

"The Jerseys is sure for the blue ribbon at the fair this year," assented Mr. Hawkins.

"How the old homestead will bring back childhood's golden fancies!" murmured the girl.

"They've painted the barn sky-blue, commented Bub."

A little further on Virginia Berry turned to the rather dogged young man. "Why don't you devote more time to self-ornamentation and to the acquiring of the arts and graces, Bub? You have the making of a handsome young Agricola."

"I'd rather be Bub Hawkins," he retorted. Then he added, "There's going to be an old-time country dance at Squire Tucker's tonight, Virginia."

The girl clapped her hands in unaffected glee. "Oh, Bub, I'm so glad. You're going, of course?"

Bub slowly nodded his head, and allowed the subject to drop. The girl sighed and looked at him with sidelong glances. Always he had taken her to these rollicking gatherings, and always she had enjoyed them to the utmost. As they drove through the wagon gate at home, she sighed again.

"Ah, the air is filled with nature's own harmony!"

"Yes," answered Bub, dryly, "that's Willie's pet pink pig under the gate. He's spilling harmony in chunks."

At the dance that evening Bub Hawkins drove up in slashing style, with pretty, coquetish Betty Canby. Virginia Berry came unattended, save by her young brother, William. The Pokotown String Band was present, working assiduously, and the scene soon became animated.

Through it all Bub Hawkins was the leading spirit. "Swing corners!" his cheery voice resounded; and the merry rompers spun giddily around. "Change partners!" he cried; and there was a general, jubilant shuffle. Virginia Berry, usually the belle of the ball, sat in a corner with a young professor from the city. The young beaux of the dance were in awe of her new speech and gestures and left her to talk with the professor. As Bub swung past with the mischievous Betty Canby on his arm the professor was saying:

"What do you think is the tendency toward agricultural betterment?"

"Yes, indeed," answered Miss Berry, abruptly, watching Betty and Bub.

After they had tired of dancing, someone suggested "pillow." The men took up the cry, the girls pretending to be greatly shocked, but managing to give in. The first lady to secure the lot of the pillow was Betty Canby and Bub Hawkins presented himself for his kiss. Betty, shrieking and laughing, fled upon the laws, Bub pursuing her with great zest. In the darkness outside he overtook and clutched a yielding form. "There!" he said, pressing his lips to the girl's warm ones. To his surprise no resistance was offered and he found himself undergoing a series of kisses, one-two-three. Also the girl clung tightly to him and threatened to weep.

A wonderful thrill came over Bub Hawkins. "Why, it's Virginia," he said. "What's the matter, anyhow?"

"I want to dance with you, Bub."

"Come on," invited Bub. "By hokey, I'll dance with you forever!"

Hand in hand they re-entered the brilliant house, while Betty Canby stole back from the bushes with her cherry lips yet untainted by the kiss of the pillow.

Compensation.

Congressman Dan Anthony, of Leavenworth, Kan., a nephew of the late Susan B. Anthony has a 10-year-old son who looks at the practical side of things every time. Not long ago his father had to go to Washington. When the day of departure arrived Mrs. Anthony said to the boy:

"Son, aren't we going to be lonesome when papa goes away?"

"Yes," replied the boy, "but we'll have a lot more cream for our oat meal."

"Family all back from the summer trip?"

"Yes."

"I hear your wife is confined to her room. What does the doctor say?"

"We haven't employed a doctor. The landladies promise to have her out in about four days."

Aisle of the Car in a Railroad Wreck.

A veteran railroad man gave a piece of valuable advice not long ago.

"If you ever get into a wreck," he said, "and have time to follow out this suggestion remember this. Always stand in the aisle. Most of the injuries that are suffered occur because the victim is crushed between the seats. If you are in the aisle you may be thrown forward and bruised a little, but there is much less chance of receiving serious hurts. It isn't always possible to get out of your seat before the crash comes, but if it is follow that advice."

Men With Green Hair.

It may be news to many people to learn that there are men living today with green hair, although this shade of head covering is popularly supposed to belong only to mermer and mermaids. This weird color is not a curious fad, but the result produced by working in a copper mine where, in order to become a marketable commodity the crude ore is roasted in furnaces.

It is stated that, although no of fensive odor emanates from this process there is nevertheless some substance therein that produces a chemical change of the hair and beard, so that they become as green as grass. Strange to say, the hair suffers no change of texture, but remains as soft and as glossy as ever.

The authorities who have investigated the matter state that the fumes from the furnace contain certain elements of arsenical matter which produce this curious change in the color of the human hair.

Warlike Sitka Indians.

"Did you know that the most warlike tribe of savages in this country in the old days was the Sitka Indians, in Alaska?" asked Harold D. Garrett of Vancouver, B. C. "In comparison with them the Sioux and Apaches of our American Indians were as peaceable as cows. The Sitka men were of the res fighting stock and valued life more than last year's blubber."

"Their religion was one of man, gods, and everything about them had its own particular ruling spirit. The relics of their worship still stand—their totem poles, with their inscriptions and strangely carved figures. The Esquimaux we know as a far different sort, given to the past suit of their existence by simple and peaceable means."

Indian Landmarks in Ohio Woods.

In the vicinity of Defiance, Ohio can be found trees that many would think freaks of nature. Such they are, but they are created by the hand of man.

According to the stories of some of the old timers these trees are much older than the present generation has any idea of and at one time served as Indian guide posts. It is said that in the early days when the Maumee Valley was one vast woods, the Indians bent these saplings to indicate certain paths. The trees, because of their deformity, grew slowly, and although they are many years old never attained the size of their brethren in the forests. Similar trees exist near Fort Wayne.

To prevent explosions of coal dust in mines experiments are under way in Germany in which water is pumped into borings under pressure.

Some men are nothing more than threats.

House-Renting and House-Selling Are Want Ad Tasks

They are such "usual tasks" for the want ads that it would be hard to find a rented house whose tenant did not find it through answering an ad—or an owned house whose purchase and sale did not originate in a classified ad.

If these facts are not significant to owners of property, no facts whatever would be.
